GRATTAN BOY.

From "The Buffalo Horse World."

The grand objects of our American Humane Education Society [first of its kind in the world] and of all its Bands of Mercy are to make not only our own nation but the whole world better and happier, both for human beings and all lower creatures that depend on our protection.

OUR STRENUOUS PRESIDENT.

We have been reading one of the strenuous speeches of our President at San Francisco, of the great navy we are going to have—how we are going to control the Pacific Ocean, the Central American Canal, and the trade of oriental countries, and we almost wonder how the Russians, and Germans, and French, and Italians, and people of Great Britain, with all their armies and navies, are going to contrive to make a living, unless, indeed, they emigrate to America and become citizens of our great republic, in which case we shall, of course, permit them to plant colonies and trade on every continent and on all the islands of every ocean.

At the beginning of our Civil War, Bull Run

Russell was sent over by the London Times to investigate, and he found somewhere down South (so he said) a little company of about fifty men who, armed with bowie knives and revolvers, proposed to capture Washington and bring back the body of Abe Lincoln in a coffin.

To the account he added how astonished these fellows will be when the first shell drops in among them.

We hope that no Russian, or German, or French, or Italian, or British shells will ever drop into any of our American cities. We much prefer friendly visits of their Ancient and Honorable Artillery Companies.

ON A BATTLE-FIELD.

BY OLIVE HARPER.

Darkness had fallen upon the battle-field. All day long cannon had thundered—musketry rattled—shells had screamed—and horses had pounded here and there urged by cruel lashings. Men had fallen, dead and dying. Hospital tents had been hastily arranged, and surgeons had done their work. Severed limbs lay in scattered heaps in the faint starlight.

Presently one man, crushed by a bursting shell, rolled from his place in a ghastly heap to the ground, where he laid beside another. As they lay there in the starlight they held conversation.

"My flesh is torn," said the first, my bones are broken; why was this war begun?"

"I," said the other, "was a peaceful man, working at my trade, harming no one, and providing for my old parents and my wife and children. But I was forced into the army and here I am. A ruler had dreams of glory and tore me from my peaceful home and sent me here. What good will future generations receive because we lie here to-night, cold and bleeding?"

"I," said the other, "wonder if those who get up these wars ever think what they mean?"

And then there was silence.

THE DEVIL'S TEACHING.

In the Boston Herald of May 3d we find that President Roosevelt (at Junction City, Kansas) introduced to the audience Secretary Root as being "as great a war secretary as any nation ever had"—and that Secretary Root told the Kansas militia there that they were to be part of the army to fight our battles when wars come, "as war always does come, sooner or later."

Is that good teaching? We say that there is no more need of wars between nations than between individuals—that they are a relic of barbarism—the concentration of all human crimes—and that to teach the youth of our country that "wars must come," and so to be constantly expecting and preparing for them is the devil's teaching.

Did this "great war secretary" ever see a battle himself, and the dead and dying horses and men lying on the battlefield?

In "Who's Who in America" we find him a New York lawyer, but no mention of battlefields.

Doubleless he can talk eloquently about the blessings of war, and the glory of killing our brother Christians. Does that make "a great war secretary?" Do we want to transform the youth of America into a race of "strenuous" bull-dogs, ready to fight whenever their masters command?

We call that the devil's teaching.

In the interests of civilization and humanity we prefer a "war secretary" imitating William Penn, who, when the other colonies were fighting the Indians, contrived to live in perfect peace with all the tribes about him. GEO. T. ANGELL.

OUR NAVAL FOLLY.

We have just read in The Nation a most interesting article on the above subject (founded on a letter to the editor from a distinguished naval officer), showing that for the current year we have appropriated no less than eighty millions dollars for the navy, and are, at the present time, clearly on the road to a naval establishment that will demand one hundred and fifty millions annually.

This leads us to think over what we have been reading from the speeches of some of our leading politicians about expansion—great navy—great army—greatest nation of the whole world.

Napoleon tried expansion in Europe.

What was the result?

Millions of dead bodies of horses and men.

We do not believe in anything that looks like threats to other nations.

They can and will, if deemed necessary, build ships as fast as we do. Much better [as we suggested to our President a few months since], enter into an agreement with them to build no new war-vessels during the next two years.

Think of our enormous seacoast to defend, and our claim under our [to us ridiculous] Monroe doctrine, that no nation on the great continent of South America, with its enormous Atlantic and Pacific seacoast, shall be permitted to even sell a coaling station to any European nation without our permission—and then our far-off Philippine Islands—how many battleships would we require to defend them?—and how large an army?—and how many millions of dollars in fortifications?

We say that any man or set of men who shall contrive to get us into unnecessary war with European nations will be a curse not only to us, but to the entire human race and all the animal creations that suffer so terribly in wars. GEO. T. ANGELL.

FROM GENERAL AND EX-GOVERNOR CHAMBERLAIN, OF MAINE.

PORTLAND, April 30, 1903.

MY DEAR MR. ANGELL:—

Your good work of humane education must go on. I wish to take such share in it as I can. Please find my check. I wish I were able to make it a hundred times as much. With all best thoughts, yours,

JOSHUA L. CHAMBERLAIN.

[Our readers may remember that General Chamberlain has long been an active life member of our American Humane Education Society. He was the officer appointed by Grant to receive the final surrender of Lee's army at Appomattox. He was one of the bravest and most brilliant generals of our Civil War.]

In many parts of Germany the hardest outdoor work falls to the women. Well, is not the same true in America? Who does the shopping?

THE PATRIOT'S DUTY.

WHAT CONGRESSMAN SAMUEL W. MCCALL SAID ON APRIL 19, IN FANEUIL HALL.

Congressman Samuel W. McCall, in a speech upon "The Patriot's Duty to the Nation," at Faneuil Hall yesterday afternoon, delivered himself of some characteristic utterances hostile to the notion that declaration about the flag constitutes patriotism, and that a man should support his country in whatever policy it pursues, be that policy right or wrong.

He maintained that it is the patriot's duty to express his honest opinion about his country, and he declared that, while he desires his country to be the greatest among the nations of the earth, he does not want it to be great in the sense of trampling upon the rights of weaker peoples, for a swaggering, bullying nation is no better than a swaggering, bullying man.

"You will not love, and you ought not to love," he declared, "the one any more than the other. The only patriot or hero is not the man with the gun. There is often greater patriotism in standing on the firing line of citizenship. In the glare of the foot-lights almost any man can be a patriot. I would not belittle physical courage. Nearly every man on the street has it. The lower animals have it. But you should cultivate that higher courage which will not permit you to swerve from what you believe to be the pathway of honor for your country."

KIND LETTER.

We received this on April 29th, with a check of $100 for our American Humane Education Society, from a lady just starting for Europe:

"You see one of my last thoughts before setting forth on my long journey of rest is of the beautiful work in which you have been so long interested—for which I send herewith a gift.

"I hope that the summer will be one of great benefit to you, and that all may go well with the splendid humane endeavor in which you have taken so conspicuous a part."

WHAT JUDGE LINDSEY OF DENVER, COLORADO, SAYS.

"Every man found guilty in my court of cruelty to animals must go to jail; there will be no other sentence in this court so long as I sit on the bench. The sooner this is understood the better it will be for this community."

A jail sentence is severe, but not too severe for the man who maltreats the brute over which he is master. Let him meditate in the seclusion of a cell the responsibilities of a living soul that has been given domination over the beasts of the field and the fowls of the air.

OUR "BAND OF MERCY" ORGANIZERS.

Our Western "Band of Mercy" organizer, Mr. Hubbard, has, during the last month, organized 254 "Bands of Mercy" in the state of Indiana, and our Eastern organizer, Mr. Leach, has, during the last month, formed 152 "Bands of Mercy" in Fall River, Mass.

He has now formed "Bands of Mercy" in all the public and parochial schools of 332 Massachusetts cities and towns.

MARION, VIRGINIA.

We have on this April 6th a letter from a lady in Marion, Virginia, who has sent us many donations, widely circulated our humane publications, and done a splendid work in the formation of "Bands of Mercy" and otherwise, in which she tells us how all her interest started in the reading of a stray copy of Our Dumb Animals; one of the between fifty and sixty thousand copies that we are sending out every month to every editorial office in America north of Mexico, and in fact to greater or less extent to about every civilized country of the world.

A MASTER'S LAMENT FOR HIS DOG.

We receive the following beautiful verses from a good friend in Leicester, Mass., relating to a valuable dog which has recently died, after taking first prize and other prizes for beauty and intelligence.

I mourn the loss of one most dear;
A friend devoted, brave and true;
And think no shame to shed a tear
As tribute to his virtues due.
His noble heart has ceased to beat;
His loving eyes have looked their last;
The life that made my life more sweet
Is now a memory of the past.
Dear brute, thy virtues would not pale
Before those of some human saint,
It was not thine a friend to fail,
Nor in the face of danger faint.
Those happy, happy days we spent
Together travelling many a mile,
Thy fond dumb speech was eloquent;
Thine eyes gave smile for smile.
What knight more chivalrous and kind,
More ready to defend the weak?
What gentleman could one e'er find
More courteous though he could not speak?
So ready with his gracious paw
And wagging tail to show good will,
Fast friends he made of those who saw
They loved him then and love him still.
May flowers bloom and grasses wave
About the spot where thou dost sleep,
May birds sing requiems o'er thy grave,
And mother earth her kind watch keep.
Rest thee in peace, thy sufferings o'er,
God's will be done; and who can tell
The "may be" meetings on that other shore?
Fast fall our tears: farewell! farewell!

E. A. P. HENSHAW.

We see in Boston Herald of May 14, that the Philippines have cost us [including the $20,000,000 we originally paid for them] about three hundred millions of dollars, and we have got back from them in trade only about six and a half millions, and that mostly for articles to be sold to our own soldiers, of whom we are obliged to keep there about 25,000.

THE BOSTON WORK-HORSE PARADE.

The Boston Work-Horse Parade on May 30th [first of its kind in America] was a splendid success. We did not feel authorized to withdraw money from the regular work of our Massachusetts Society to aid it, because our Society needs ten times what we now have, but we cheerfully contributed from our own pocket ten dollars on understanding that no dock-tailed horse should receive a prize, and were richly repaid in seeing the over four hundred long-tailed, well-kept and beautiful horses that passed before us.

If the first Board of Directors of our Massachusetts S. P. C. A. [all of whom, except ourselves, are now under the sod at Mount Auburn and elsewhere] could have seen this beautiful exhibition, we doubt not they would have claimed it as part of the fruit of what they helped to do.

Much credit is due to its president, Mr. R. Ashton Lawrence; its secretary, H. C. Merwin, Esq.; and its treasurer, Dr. Austin Peters.

We sincerely hope that similar associations may be formed and similar exhibitions be given in all our large cities.

GEO. T. ANGELL.

RALPH WALDO EMERSON'S DEFINITION OF HUMANITY.

We hesitate to employ a word so much abused as patriotism, whose true sense is almost reverse of its popular sense. We have no sympathy with that boyish egotism, hoarse with cheering for one side, for one state, for one town. The right patriotism consists in the delight which springs from contributing our peculiar and legitimate advantages to the benefit of humanity.—Boston Evening Transcript, May 4, 1903.

A POWERFUL PROTECTOR.

PATRIOTISM.

DESERVING THE CAREFUL THOUGHT OF EVERY READER OF "OUR DUMB ANIMALS."

We wish it might be re-published in every one of the over twenty thousand newspapers and magazines that receive our paper every month.

PATRIOTISM.

BY JOHN C. HAVEMEYER, OF NEW YORK.

For many years I have carefully studied the popular idea of patriotism, both as a sentiment and as a practical truth. My conclusion is that there exists a great deal of misapprehension, and I feel prompted at this time of special patriotic fervor to present my views. I invite, and even challenge, any of your readers who do not agree with me, to prove that I am in error.

1. There is not in any part of the Bible even a sentence that requires or justifies "patriotism."
2. The sentiment called by this name, like the word which expresses it, is probably of heathen origin.
3. The usual definition of patriotism is "love of country." The man who seeks to learn what this phrase means and to carry out its teachings in his life, attempts a hopeless task.
4. It is an exaggerated form of selfishness, and is one of the devil's most successful devices to deceive and mislead the human race.
5. It is, in fact, a delusive method of inducing a violation of the Sixth Commandment, "Thou shalt not kill," and is practically in opposition to the spirit of the other nine.
6. Ministers and others who teach the co-ordinate obligation of religion and patriotism have no warrant in reason or scripture, and the practice largely accounts for the diminished moral tone and tendency to scepticism among the people.
7. The religious organization which sends missionaries to foreign nations to preach the gospel of peace and good will and the duty of self-surrender and obedience to God, and rests its claims for support on the value of the human soul, and at the same time approves of and advises its members to enlist for war, occupies a position so absurd as to be essentially grotesque.
8. No man has a right to risk his own life, which is a trust for which an account must be rendered, except in the effort to benefit his fellow-men.
9. The claims of the State are inferior to the claims of God, and should be regulated by our relations and obligations to Him.

10. The continued life and prosperity of nations depends primarily and indispensably upon righteousness.

11. No government has a right to make a training for war a fixed employment for its citizens, and every man who thus devotes his life violates divine law and jeopardizes his happiness for eternity.

12. The maintenance of a navy, except for police purposes, such as may be required to suppress piracy or other open violations of human and divine law, cannot be justified.

13. It follows that the study of the art of war in military and naval academies has a demoralizing influence, and that the tendency is to blunt the moral perception and unfit men who pursue it for useful lives.

14. It is a disgrace to Christian people that men who have excelled in the deceptive arts and brutal destruction of life, limb and property involved in war should be hailed as benefactors, treated with exceptional honor and often placed in high official positions.

15. This high estimate of the merit and proper reward for military service disparages self-denying men and women who consecrate their lives to the effort to lift up and save their fellow-men, and makes a false standard of excellence.

16. It places brute force above moral worth, fosters worldliness and low ideals, and ignores the fact that a man is to be judged by mind and heart, and that what he thinks and how much he loves is the true test of worth.

17. A nation that maintains a great army and navy to be indispensable for protection disregards the Bible requirement of trust in and dependence on God, and eventually will reap a harvest of disappointment and humiliation.

18. The teaching of "patriotism" in public schools [should be the teaching of true patriotism, a patriotism which, as Emerson says, is for the benefit of humanity.—GEO. T. ANGELL.]

19. The true patriot interprets "love of country" to signify love for the people who are in it. He will express this feeling by a special interest in their welfare and effort to make them the purest, noblest and happiest among the nations of the earth. This love will necessarily expand into a world-wide love, for all men have a common origin, need, nature and destiny.—JOHN C. HAVEMEYER, in the New York Evening Post.

The celebrated Dr. Johnson is reported to have said that "Patriotism is the last refuge of scoundrels." But we add that the kind of patriotism he referred to is not the kind taught by our American Humane Education Society and its "Bands of Mercy." The doctor undoubtedly meant the scoundrels who for personal profit contrive to get their nations into terrible wars, destructive both to human beings and the dumb animals that depend on our mercy.

OUR UNITED STATES STANDING ARMY.

As we have said many times, whenever our Christian churches undertake to do their full duty to God and man in the prevention of wars, through sermons in all their pulpits, prayers in all the churches, great union prayer meetings of all the Protestant churches in every city and town, petitions signed by Protestant and Catholic clergy and church members for settlement by arbitration; whenever Christian churches undertake to do their duty in this respect, there will be no more wars between Christian nations.

But with the vast multitudes of ignorant immigrants from the poorer classes of Europe now pouring into our country, there must be for many years the necessity of a standing army to aid the police in the protection of property and life. So long as this is true, it is and will be of the utmost importance that this army should be composed of men well paid, well treated and properly educated to the importance, for the poor as well as the rich, that public order be maintained, the laws enforced, and anarchy promptly suppressed.

GEO. T. ANGELL.

FOR THE PAINTERS.

A celebrated London artist painted an exceedingly humble nobleman so true to the life that the nobleman refused to take the picture, declaring it bore no resemblance to himself.

The painter called in his attendant and requested the nobleman to make the statement again, which the nobleman did. The painter then thanked him for rejecting the picture, "because," said he, "I can get twice as much for it as you were going to pay me."

"How will you do that?" said the nobleman.

"Oh, I shall draw a tail to it and put it up in —'s art window as a picture of the devil."

WELL FOR OUR FRIENDS TO REMEMBER.

It is well for our friends to remember that while there are some twelve or fourteen hundred police officers for the protection of human beings in the city of Boston alone, and perhaps two thousand officers for their protection in Boston and its immediate vicinity, we have only eight paid prosecuting agents to protect dumb animals in the whole Commonwealth of Massachusetts. Of course we must rely principally on humane education, "Bands of Mercy," and the formation of a public opinion which shall demand enforcement of our laws for the protection of animals by the regular police authorities in our various cities and towns. While we have more or less help from our other hundreds of agents through the Commonwealth [to whom we can only pay the expenses which they incur], still we are quite aware that if they are not actively sustained by their fellow-citizens we can hardly expect them to take large risks in prosecuting rich men or poor. If the "Bands of Mercy" which we are forming all through the state will undertake to see that the laws are enforced in their respective localities, they will be, but persons who are doing nothing to establish and maintain our work should never complain of cruelty in their cities or towns. We regret to say that large numbers of complaints are sent to our offices by people who [so far as we can ascertain] have never given a sixpence in their lives for the prevention of cruelty to animals, and sometimes complain of us who have given, directly and indirectly, as our friends say, more than fifty thousand dollars to this humane work.

GEO. T. ANGELL.

The man who does all his praying on his knees doesn't pray enough.

PROTECTION FOR HORSES.

Our readers will be glad to know that at the May meeting our directors voted to authorize the purchase of a thousand hats for horses and a thousand vials of fluid to protect horses from insects; also to send Our Dumb Animals during the summer to several hundred hotels in different parts of the country.

A HOME AND REST FOR HORSES.

Our readers will remember what we said in our May number in regard to our plans for a country farm, to be followed [we hope] by many others, where old horses could be insured kind treatment, and worn-out horses taken from cruel owners could be rested and put into the hands of humane people. We shall hope in our July number to be able to call attention to the first farm of its kind. We also hope to obtain in the future, in a humanely-conducted veterinary hospital, free stalls for the sick horses of the poor.

BOB RESCUED.

Six months ago, Bob, a coach-horse belonging to ex-Senator W. T. McGraw, who resides in the Albemarle Flats, 1477 Grand River avenue, had the distinction of wearing a harness trimmed with silver. He drew a stylish turnout and, presumably, was made the object of envious criticism among the members of horse society in the northwestern part of the city. In those days Bob had plenty to eat and drink, and enjoyed the luxury of a clean, well-kept stable, with none of the drudgery submitted to by the common carriers. Bob was petted by the women and children, receiving many a lump of sugar, which he learned to expect as his due. He waxed fat and was contented.

But evil days fell upon him. They came to horses as well as men. One day he developed a lame foot and a veterinary surgeon was called in, but notwithstanding all efforts the trouble refused to yield to expert treatment. It became evident that Bob could no longer perform the duties of an up-to-date coach-horse, and so it was decided to sell the turnouts and Bob, and substitute an automobile, which requires no feeding or petting or lumps of sugar. The poor lame foot needed the soft earth of country roads, instead of the hard cedar and asphalt pavements, and when he was sold to a horse dealer the stipulation was made that he should be taken into the country.

The horse dealer was covetous, however, and obtained a good price for him from a brick manufacturer, who did not notice the limp. Within a few days poor Bob was hauling a wagon heavily loaded with bricks, instead of a victoria. He couldn't do this work, being practically useless, so the foot was doctored up by allowing the animal to rest, and Bob again changed owners, this time being sold to a milk dealer. Every day he hauled 1,000 to 1,500 pounds of milk into the city from a point three or four miles beyond the first toll-gate on Grand River avenue to the distributing point down town.

Every day, for many weary weeks, Bob limped into the city and passed the stable in which he had spent so many enjoyable hours. His quarters were not cleaned and gradually the refuse was heaped up so that his tail was higher than his head, and Bob ate his feed at an angle of twenty-five degrees. He missed his portion of oats and good hay, which every faithful receives. The ribs commenced to show, until every one of them became visible, a sad commentary upon the thoughtlessness of his owner. His head drooped with weariness and hunger, but still he plodded to and from the city, bearing his heavy burden.

One day last week, however, Dame Fortune again smiled upon the animal. His old coachman noticed the dilapidated condition of the horse. An investigation followed and finally Bob's identity was established. The coachman told one of the ladies in the flat, who told the proprietor's wife. They watched for Bob the next day and became convinced that it must be he. The coachman was told to quietly dicker with the owner of Bob, and it was agreed to pay $35 for him. This appeared to be a good thing, as the animal was hopelessly lame and a mere bag of bones. After the money had been passed over the coachman said to the milkman:

"You got a good price for him, but McGraw will be glad to get him back."

"Was that deal made for the chap who owns the flats," asked Bob's former owner. "If I had known that I would have tucked on a better price."

A royal welcome awaited Bob. He was again made the pet of the flats and received so much sugar, hay oats and other good things which horses appreciate that he was threatened by an attack of indigestion. For four days he has been busy filling out his frame so that the ribs are slowly disappearing. Every day he takes a luxurious sun bath lying on his side, with neck stretched out upon the ground, and soon Bob will be taken to a farm on Grosse Ile, there to end his days in comparative luxury, with no more drudgery or abuse.—Detroit Free Press.

OUR HUMANE BOOKS.

We have recently received large orders for our humane books. We have one to-day from Miss Eddy, of Providence, for 500 cloth-bound and 250 paper-bound copies of "Black Beauty" and "Hollyhust."

SAN FRANCISCO.

We are glad to receive on May 9th another hundred subscriptions for Our Dumb Animals from San Francisco.

FOR THE BENEFIT OF OUR FRIENDS.

For the benefit of our friends whom we have not had the privilege of meeting personally, we are glad to find in the Boston Sunday Journal of May 10th, that we "sit erect at our desk—our movements are agile—our grip is firm—our voice is clear—our eyes very bright—and that there is scarcely a wrinkle on our kindly face." [We are glad to learn that we look so well.]

The trouble and worry and wear and tear that come from hating people make hating unprofitable.

CATTLE TRANSPORTATION.

THE POWER OF THE KODAK.

BY J. F. COWAN.

Jack was sitting tipped lazily back in the easy-chair reading the newspaper.

"I declare," said he to his mother, "if it isn't shameful! There ought to be more than one man to see that the animals are not cruelly treated. If I were a knight and had a sword, like I read about in some of the story-books, I'd just start out and make it my business to protect the animals."

"Why," said Jack, "the paper says that two or three carloads of cattle were taken through here this morning, and many of 'em were almost dead for want of water and from being thrown down and trampled upon by the others. I should think the railroad men or the men that owned the cattle or somebody ought to be prosecuted."

"What are you talking about, Jack?" asked his father, who had just come into the room. "Oh! I presume the owners of the cattle would have been glad enough to have watered the stock, and to have kept the weaker ones from being trampled upon by the stronger ones. They were taking them to market, and of course mistreatment meant loss to them. The trouble seems to be with the railroad company, which will not provide the right kind of cars, or stop them long enough so that the stock can be looked after."

"Then," said Jack, "if I were one of the knights I would couch my lance and ride straight to the offices of the railroad company, and I would make them so afraid that they would promise to run the trains more slowly, and furnish cars with feed and watering troughs, and engineers who wouldn't stop and start with such a jerk as to throw the cattle off their feet."

"Well," laughed his father, "you would probably be arrested by a policeman before you got very far and put into jail for your trouble."

"Well, I think it is a mean shame, anyway," said Jack; "there ought to be something done. Can't something be done, father?"

"I don't know, I am sure," said his father. "Men are trying to pass better laws, but I fear most of the people do not realize that they are needed. Perhaps things are not as bad as the newspapers report, or if they are but very few people realize it. If the public could be made to see a picture of the sufferings of these dumb brutes perhaps they would—"

"A picture! Why, I never thought of using a picture instead of a sword or a lance or a battle-axe. Why, look here, that's just the thing! I can make a picture if I can't swing a sword. There is my kodak. I never thought of using it in that way before. I'll get Dick to take his along, too."

Ten minutes later Jack was racing across to his chum's house.

"Dick!" he called out, "get your 'hawk-eye' and come on down to the stockyards."

Dick heard the plan rather skeptically.

"What good will it do?" he said. "They won't pay any attention to your picture, 'course they won't."

"Won't they?" said Jack stoutly. "You wait and see if they won't."

So after dinner that day Jack swung his kodak over his shoulder and started off for the stockyards. He did not have to wait very long to find what he was in pursuit of. Presently a long train of stock came jolting in.

The cars were stopped, the engine was unhitched and backed off, while the drovers alighted from the caboose and went up and down the train "punching up" the animals which were lying down, and attempting to feed and water them all.

"You will have to hurry up there!" shouted out a railroad man to the owners of the stock. "We are behind time now, and can only stop five minutes here—long enough to change engines."

"Can't you give us a little more time to get the animals up that are down? They will die if we don't."

"No; hurry! The time will soon be gone."

Jack crept along the side of the car almost fearing to look in because of the disgusting sights he expected to see. By and by he saw a horn stuck through the grating. He tip-toed and looked in, but the next moment turned his head and grew pale. Snap went his kodak and on he sped to the next car.

He had not much time. In another car he saw an animal which was faint and gasping lying in the bottom of the car. Snap went his kodak again.

Just as he reached the next car some men were approaching with buckets of water. The almost frenzied animals began to bawl and stamp, with their heads and tails erect, as if half crazed by the smell of the water. Snap went Jack's kodak, and he had another view.

Two or three times again it snapped, and then his work at that place was done. He hastened home, went into his dark closet, prepared his solutions, and in a little time had developed and dried his plates ready for printing.

A few days later there came a light tap at the door of the office of the president of the railroad company. When it was opened by his secretary it was not indeed a mailed and armed warrior who greeted him with threatening mien, but a neatly dressed and pleasant faced boy, carrying in his hand a kodak camera, who made this modest request:

"If you please, sir, may I see the president of the company just a few moments? I have some photographs of the railroad which I am sure he will want to see."

"Why, yes; I suppose you might show the boy in," said the great man; "I know his father, and I presume it is all right. What is this you have?"

His own face reflected the serious look upon the face of the boy as he looked upon the pictures and heard the explanation.

"Why, can it be possible," he said, "that things are as bad as this? I had no idea! Yes, certainly; this must be stopped. I will give orders at once about the cars and stock, and to the engineers. Thank you, my lad, for the service you have done in behalf of the poor creatures."

And when Jack went home that day I am sure his heart beat as proudly and his step was as high and the look of victory on his face was as complete as it would have been had he sallied forth sword in hand to avenge the sufferings of the dumb animals in the warrior-like spirit of a knight of old.

JUST A FEW WORDS.

(In "Our Home," Montreal, Feb. 10.)

Just a few words I want to say to my Canadian sisters on a question that is a burning one to me ever since it was brought to my attention by George T. Angell, President of the "American Humane Education Society." Do you, my dear, unknown friend, now glancing at these lines—do you ever wear a murdered bird in your hat? I used to. I knew nothing about the subject. I was a sad heretic. But a day came when I ripped birds and wings from my hats and threw them into the fire, except one blackbird that I kept upon the canopy of my bed as a text to preach a sermon from to any unenlightened friend that enters the room. Do you know how the fashion started? Do you know how the birds are killed? Let me try to tell you. Seven years ago, at a ball of the demi-monde in Paris, appeared a woman wearing on her head a stuffed bird with glassy eyes and outspread wings and tail. The other women thought it was charming. They, too, obtained stuffed birds. The fashion spread upward; and this is said to be the true history of its beginning. The cruelty that attends the slaughter of the birds is such that no right-minded woman, if she knew it, would for an instant think of again wearing the bodies of these little creatures. Are they not tender mothers? Do they not love their nestlings, often flying home with bleeding body to die beside their little ones? The beautiful humming-bird killed by thrusting a red-hot needle down its throat. The red birds that come from France killed by being placed in a cold oven, which is gradually heated to preserve the brilliant coloring of the plumage.

Down south the hunters carry on such wholesale destruction among the birds that in many cases, where the wings only are needed, they tear them from the living body. The birds are hunted at the season of the year when they are rearing their young, because at that time their plumage is the brightest. Five million song-birds are annually required—what for? Do the men hunters who capture them wear them? No; they are placed on the breasts and over the brows of some of the fairest and best women of this continent. Wait till the women know it. They will change all that, for the heart of a true woman is pure gold.—MARSHALL SAUNDERS.

GEO. T. ANGELL.

We are glad to report this month four hundred and ninety-four new branches of our Parent Band of Mercy, making a total of fifty-four thousand nine hundred and eighty-four.

NEW BAND OF MERCY BADGES.

There having been a wide call for cheaper Band of Mercy badges, we have succeeded in adding to the kinds we have been using a new badge in the two sizes above represented. They are very handsome—a white star on a blue ground, with gilt letters, and we sell them at bare cost, five for ten cents, in money or postage stamps, or larger numbers at same price. We cannot attend to smaller orders than five.

HUMANE EDUCATION AND PREVENTION OF CRUELTY TO ANIMALS.

At the May meeting of the Directors of the American Humane Education Society and Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, held on the 20th ult., President Angell reported that the Society's agents during the last month had examined, in their investigations, 2,335 animals, taken 153 horses from work, and mercifully killed 123 horses and other animals.

Four hundred and ninety-four new "Bands of Mercy" had been formed during the month, making a total of 54,984.

The Massachusetts Society has received from the estate of Robert C. Billings, deceased, five thousand dollars.

In response to the American Humane Education Society's offer of $200 for the best plan of preventing strikes, twenty-six plans have already been received.

It was voted by the Directors to authorize the purchase of one thousand hats for horses, and one thousand vials of a preparation to protect horses from insects, and to supply a large number of summer hotels with Our Dumb Animals during the hotel season.

PROVERBS AND BANDS OF MERCY.

A young man said to an eminent doctor of divinity that he didn't think much of the book of Proverbs. Anybody could make proverbs. "Make a few," said the doctor.

When we first began to send out "Black Beauty" it was severely attacked by a Boston writer as having no literary merit, etc., etc. Through our efforts in sending it out millions of readers have since thought differently.

And now we find in a paper before us a criticism of our "Bands of Mercy" [which have been endorsed by multitudes of the best men and women of our country, including thousands of teachers and numerous school superintendents], because some of the members of these "Bands of Mercy" have not been quite so humane as we should be glad to have them.

The devil would be awfully glad to get rid of them. He does not want two millions of children talked to about kindness—or this paper sent to every "Band of Mercy" for one year—or the other humane publications and instructions we send to every "Band of Mercy" formed. We did not consult him when [during sixty-one days] we gave one hour addresses to all the High, Latin, Normal and Grammar Schools of Boston. If we had consulted him he would doubtless have opposed it. We do not believe that all the boys and girls we had the pleasure of addressing have turned out to be as humane as we should have been glad to have had them, but on the other hand we have no doubt that tens of thousands of them have never forgotten (and never will forget) those one hour addresses.

We do not expect every one talked to about humanity will become humane.

We have no doubt our Massachusetts clergy [all of whom receive this paper every month] could cite many instances where people who have had the gospel preached to them all their lives are still very far from being the saints they ought to be.

GEO. T. ANGELL.

FROM AN INTERESTING ARTICLE.

From an interesting article by A. Judson Leach, our Massachusetts State organizer of Bands of Mercy, in the Boston Evening Transcript of May 12th, we take a few of the statements of Massachusetts school superintendents in regard to the usefulness of the "Bands of Mercy" we have been forming in their schools:—

From the Holyoke superintendent: "Much good was done." From the Northampton superintendent: "I can recommend without question that Bands of Mercy should be organized in every school in the land." From the Braintree superintendent: "Such humane education as was started here will do more to prevent crime than all the laws, police and detectives have ever done or ever can do. This work is beginning at the root of the matter." From the Greenfield superintendent: "Impressions have been made upon some of the most reckless." From the Everett superintendent: "The Bands of Mercy have done a great thing for our boys and girls here." From

Framingham State Normal School: "Bands of Mercy have been of great value and a decided uplift in moral education." From the Salem superintendent: "I take pleasure in commending this work as in line with some of the most desirable ends that our public schools are set to accomplish." From the Lynn superintendent: "The serious impressions made upon our boys and girls stamp this work of humane education among us as one of the labors whose results will be realized in the better spirit and action of our young people towards God's creation everywhere." From the Springfield superintendent: "I have heard nothing but praise concerning this work from the teachers and principals. Teaching children kindness to the brute creation solves a good many other problems, and it is this larger influence of your work which makes it so important."

SUPERANNUATED.

We had a delightful call last evening from Bishop Hamilton, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, during which we had the pleasure of telling him of the great kindness we had received many times from his denomination. When we addressed the Methodist Episcopal Conference at Charlestown—when we addressed the great Rock River Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church at Chicago—when we spoke under the great tent at the Vineyard—when we spoke in the great Methodist Episcopal Church at Saratoga Springs to an audience filling the entire church—the various times at which we have had the pleasure of addressing the Methodist Episcopal clergy in Boston, Washington, and other American cities,—we were glad to tell the bishop how happy we had been made several times by the unanimous standing votes of thanks of Methodist audiences—the God bless you's we had received from Methodist clergy and other Methodists. But just as the bishop was about leaving we said we had one thing against the Methodist Episcopal Church. He said, "What?" and we answered that when your bishops have arrived at the age at which lawyers and doctors are receiving their largest fees you call them superannuated, which to the common understanding means that they have lived too long, and are of no further use. We never hear of superannuated bishops in the Catholic or Episcopal churches. His Holiness at Rome, in his ninety-third year, is not superannuated. We should be sorry to hear that Edward Everett Hale, Ex-Governor Boutwell, Mary A. Livermore, and many others we might name [older than ourselves], were superannuated, and we should not like to have anybody affix that name to us. It seems to us much better to give your bishops who are beyond the active physical duties required of a bishop a title of honor, such as Senior Bishops, or anything else in fact than Superannuated Bishops.
GEO. T. ANGELL.

THE AMUSING INCIDENT.

The amusing incident related in our May issue of how the celebrated Rowland Hill read from his pulpit one Sunday an anonymous letter telling him that our blessed Lord did not ride to church in a carriage, and added that if the writer would come to him next Sunday, properly saddled and bridled, he would be glad to follow our Lord's example ("by riding on an ass"), has made perhaps fifty thousand or more of our readers either laugh or smile.

It calls to our mind one of the most amusing incidents of our college life, when, soon after entering Dartmouth, it fell to our lot to represent our class in a debate before one of the large college societies, and our opponent in a higher class made considerable fun out of our name [first of its kind in Dartmouth], winding up with the statement that for an angel we had accomplished but little in the way of argument. We replied by saying that if we had accomplished little in the way of argument we believed we had accomplished one thing that had been accomplished but once before in the history of the world—and that was when an angel opened the mouth of Balaam's ass. We stopped right there. The applause was tremendous, and on the foot-ball ground our opponent thereafter was known by the name of Balaam. "Go it, Balaam," etc.

We trust that stuffed specimens may some time be substituted in menageries for many animals to which confinement is cruelty.

A QUIET POOL IN "MEADOW BROOK."

KNOWING COW.

VALLEJO, CAL., Mar. 17, 1903. — But for the intelligence of a cow the infant daughter of Mrs. Anzini would have perished. The child wandered a mile and a half from home on the Napa road, and for forty-six hours was exposed to the cold and without food. Searching parties could find no trace of the child.

Robert Cogini, while repairing fences near the child's home, was attracted by the strange actions of a cow in a stubble field. The cow would come toward him and return, always in the same direction. Cogini followed to where the cow stopped, and after searching discovered the lost little one, unconscious, lying face down, hidden by high stubble.

OUR "HUMANE BUILDING."

It is suggested that our proposed new building shall be named "The Humane Building"—that in the most prominent part of it shall be inscribed the names of its givers and the objects for which it is erected: "Glory to God, Peace on Earth, Kindness, Justice and Mercy to Every Living Creature."

CAUTION CARDS.

The Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals cautions all persons against overdriving, overloading, overworking, depriving of necessary sustenance and shelter, or inflicting any unnecessary cruelty upon any animal.

Killing any song or insect-eating bird or robbing its nest.

Maliciously administering poison or exposing any poisonous substance with intent that the same shall be taken or swallowed by any animal.

Cases of cruelty can be reported to any of our over four hundred unpaid local agents, but as many of these are very busy men it is better to report to headquarters at 19 Milk Street, Boston, where all complaints made can receive prompt attention.

GEO. T. ANGELL, President.

19 Milk St., Boston, Mass.

We have printed five thousand of these cards, measuring thirteen inches by ten inches and shall be glad to send them to friends who will see that they are posted in prominent places.

GOOD COUNTRY TO LIVE IN.

The German emperor and I
Within the self-same year were born,
Beneath the self-same sky.
Upon the self-same morn;
A kaiser he, of high estate,
And I the usual chance of fate.

His father was a prince; and mine—
Why, just a farmer, that is all.
Stars still are stars, although some shine,
And some roll hid in midnight's pall;
But argue, cavil all you can,
My sire was just as good a man.

The German emperor and I
Eat, drink, and sleep the self-same way;
For bread is bread, and pie is pie,
And kings can eat but thrice a day,
And sleep will only come to those
Whose mouths and stomachs are not foes.

I rise at six and go to work,
And he at five and does the same,
We both have cares we cannot shirk;
Mine are for loved ones; his for fame.
He may live best, I cannot tell;
I'm sure I wish the kaiser well.

I have a wife, and so has he;
And yet, if pictures do not err,
As far as human sight can see,
Mine is by long odds twice as fair.
Say, would I trade those eyes dark brown?
Not for an empress and her crown.

And so the emperor and I
On this one point could ne'er agree;
Moreover, we will never try.
His frau suits him and mine suits me,
And though his sons one day may rule,
Mine stands A 1 in public school.

So let the kaiser have his sway,
Bid kings and nations tumble down,
I have my freedom and my say,
And fear no ruler and his crown;
For I, unknown to fame or war,
Live where each man is emperor.

"What do they do when they install a minister?" inquired a small boy. "Do they put him in a stall and feed him?" "No," said the father, "they harness him to the church and expect him to draw it."

ANGELL PRIZE CONTESTS.

A splendid way to raise money in schools, churches, Sunday-schools, or elsewhere for any object preferred.

ANGELL PRIZE CONTESTS IN HUMANE SPEAKING.

We have beautiful sterling silver medals, of which this cut shows the size and face inscriptions.

On the back is inscribed, "The American Humane Education Society."

We sell them at one dollar each, which is just what we pay for them by the hundred.

Each is in a box on red velvet, and we make no charge for postage when sent by mail.

The plan is this: Some large church or public hall is secured, several schools, Sunday-schools, granges or other societies are invited to send their best speaker or reciter to compete for the prize medal; some prominent citizen presides; other prominent citizens act as the committee of award, and a small admission fee, ten or twenty cents, pays all the costs, and leaves a handsome balance for the local humane society or "Band of Mercy," or school or Sunday-school or church or library or any other object preferred.

"BLESSED ARE THE MERCIFUL."

We have in our principal office [in a large frame and conspicuous position] the names of those who have kindly remembered our two Societies in their wills.

When we get a building we intend to have them so engraved in it as to last through the centuries.

PRIZES $675.

In behalf of The Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals I do hereby offer (1) $100 for evidence which shall enable the Society to convict any man in Massachusetts of cruelty in the practice of vivisection.

(2) $25 for evidence to convict of violating the recently-enacted law of Massachusetts against vivisections and dissections in our public schools.

(3) $100 for evidence to convict any member of the Myopia, Hingham, Dedham, Harvard or Country Clubs, of a criminal violation of law by causing his horse to be mutilated for life.

(4) $50 for evidence to convict anyone in Massachusetts of a violation of law by causing any horse to be mutilated for life by docking.

(5) Twenty prizes of $10 each, and forty prizes of $5 each, for evidence to convict of violating the laws of Massachusetts by killing any insect-eating bird or taking eggs from its nest.

GEO. T. ANGELL, President.

Our creed and the creed of our "American Humane Education Society," as appears on its battle-flags—its badges—and its official seal, is "Glory to God," "Peace on Earth," "Kindness, Justice and Mercy to every living creature."

"FOR PITY'S SAKE" FOR GRATUITOUS DISTRIBUTION.

In past numbers of our paper we have said that various friends had given us donations to aid in gratuitous distribution of this most valuable book, which every one reads with pleasure, and having read, wants every one else to read. We are sorry to add that the fund given for its distribution is now exhausted, but to those who wish to buy it the price for our edition [which we sell at bare cost] is ten cents per copy, post-paid, and the cloth-bound edition we are kindly permitted by its author, Mrs. Carter, to sell at sixty cents, or post-paid seventy cents per copy.

"The Humane Horse Book," compiled by George T. Angell, is a work which should be read by every man, woman and child in the country. Price, 5 cents.—Boston Courier.

Nations, like individuals, are powerful in the degree that they command the sympathies of their neighbors.

In hiring a herdic, coupe, or other carriage never forget to look at the horses and hire those that look the best and have no docked tails. When we take a herdic we pick out one drawn by a good horse, tell the driver not to hurry, but take it easy, and give him five or ten cents over his fare for being kind to his horse. We never ride behind a dock-tailed horse.

Send for prize essays published by Our American Humane Education Society on the best plan of settling the difficulties between capital and labor, and receive a copy without charge.

Always kill a wounded bird or other animal as soon as you can. All suffering of any creature, just before it dies, poisons the meat.

GEO. T. ANGELL.

Every kind word you say to a dumb animal or bird will make you happier.

SONGS OF HAPPY LIFE, &c.

For prices of Miss S. J. Eddy's new book, above named, and a variety of humane publications, address, "Humane Education Committee, No. 61 Westminster Street, Providence, R. I."

One thing we must never forget, namely: that the infinitely most important work for us is the humane education of the millions who are soon to come on the stage of action.

GEO. T. ANGELL.

What do you consider, Mr. Angell, the most important work you do?

Answer. Talking each month to the editors of every newspaper and magazine in North America north of Mexico, who in their turn talk to probably over sixty millions of readers.

"Just so soon and so far as we pour into all our schools the songs, poems and literature of mercy towards these lower creatures, JUST SO SOON AND SO FAR SHALL WE REACH THE ROOTS NOT ONLY OF CRUELTY BUT OF CRIME."

GEO. T. ANGELL.

Refuse to ride in any cab, herdic or carriage drawn by a docked horse, and tell the driver why.

FOR FREE DISTRIBUTION.

To those who will have them properly posted we send:

- (1.) Placards for the protection of birds under our Massachusetts laws.
- (2.) Placards for the protection of horses everywhere from docking and tight check-reins.

WHAT A DOCKED HORSE TELLS.

- (1.) That the owner does not care one straw for the suffering of dumb animals.
- (2.) That the owner does not care one straw for the good opinion of nine-tenths of his fellow-citizens who witness the effects of his cruelty.

Every unkind treatment to the cow poisons the milk—even talking unkindly to her.

Is it cruel to keep a horse locked up in a stable without exercise?

Answer: Just as cruel as it would be to keep a boy, or girl, or man, or woman in the same condition.

If to this is added solitary confinement without the company of other animals, then the cruelty is still greater.

GEO. T. ANGELL.

WORTH REMEMBERING.

- (1.) Avoid so far as possible drinking any water which has been contaminated by lead pipes or lead lined tanks.
- (2.) Avoid drinking water which has been run through galvanised iron pipes.
- (3.) Avoid using anything acid which has been kept in a tin can.
- (4.) When grippe or other epidemics are prevailing wear a little crude sulphur in your boots or shoes.

THE MASCOT OF THE "LEYDEN."

The mascot of the United States tugboat Leyden, which was wrecked in a fog off Block Island's famed Mohegan Bluffs on the afternoon of January 21, was rescued after one of the most thrilling and dangerous experiences that has ever befallen a naval mascot. For three days and nights pussy floated on a plank in the hold of the shipwrecked vessel over which angry waves constantly dashed, but the handsome little creature, the pride and pet in days gone by of hundreds of jack tars, bravely held her own, clinging resolutely to the stray plank until the arrival of the rescue party, 72 hours after the last sailor-man had been landed in safety by the life-savers.

One of the crew of the ill-fated Leyden was almost done up. Indeed it looked at first as if he would not recover from the terrible experience, but after working over him for several hours his friends managed to resuscitate him. The very first words the man spoke were:

"Did they save Tiger?"

Tiger was the name of the feline mascot, and the incident just recited shows in a pathetic and fitting manner the warm affection felt for Tiger by the men of the Leyden.

Everybody supposed that the mascot must have lost her nine lives. The islanders could not figure it out otherwise, but finally somebody suggested that there was one chance in a hundred that the cat was still alive, and so three days after the catastrophe a rescue party was organized. Captain Dodge, who commands the Block Island steamer New Shoreham, was one of the party.

"When we reached the vessel," said he, "desolation aboard seemed to reign supreme. Not a sound was heard save the noise of the waves. Presently we heard a faint sound coming from down below; it resembled somewhat the crying of a child in distress. Following it up we soon discovered that it emanated from Tiger, who was floating on a board plank waiting patiently for something favorable to happen. Was she glad to see us? Well I guess she was. Tiger didn't say a word, but she mewed contentedly and showed how happy and thankful she was in various ways."

The ex-mascot has been re-christened. She is now called Leyden in honor of the government tug. She is queen of the village drug-store owned by Darius Dodge, where islanders and visitors pay her the homage that is due a heroine of such renown.

The rescued pussy is not an ordinary cat. She has an interesting history. Her birthplace was the island of Porto Rico. When a kitten she was drafted aboard a government vessel in the capacity of mascot and all-around favorite, and she has been sailing on battleships and smaller naval craft ever since. They say at Block Island that at the time of the Boxer outbreak pussy was cruising in Chinese waters.

Providence Journal.

WHAT A HORSE WOULD SAY IF HE COULD.

Please to take off these close-fitting blinders and give me a chance to use my eyes like other folks. And then, here's this check-rein. It pulls my head away up in the air. It hurts my mouth. It sometimes gives me a throat disease.

I can't see the road so well and am more likely to stumble.

I can't draw near so much as I could with my head down, and I can't draw so easy. A tight check-rein puts me in constant pain. Please to kindly take off this check-rein, or lengthen it out so that I can put my head down where I want to when I am going up hill.

And then, there's this matter of overloading.

If I generally draw kindly, but some day give out and stop, and tell you as plainly as I can that you have put on too much load, it isn't right to go to beating and swearing at me.

It is much kinder and better to talk kindly and throw off part of the load or get another horse, or if the wheel is in a hole ask the people near to take hold and push.

We horses can't tell our feelings as you can. Sometimes we are dizzy—sometimes sick.

Sometimes the hostler drives us half the night, and then turns us out for a day's work next morning.

Sometimes he don't get up in time to give us our breakfast—sometimes he forgets to water us.

A FOUR POUND DOG.

We see by the Grand Rapids (Michigan) Herald of April 19th that a four pound dog belonging to Dr. C. S. Bullen, 288 South College Avenue, recently saved by his barking the family silver, including a magnificent solid silver table set.

We recollect reading many years ago of a gentleman traveling in a newly settled country of the West, with a dog so small that he carried it in his overcoat pocket. The barking of this little fellow in the night woke him at the road house where he was stopping and saved his life, as it was afterwards discovered that several travellers had been murdered there. We think the growing cheapness of bicycles on which rascals can easily travel silently forty miles in a night is going to compel farmers and others living in exposed places to keep small dogs in their homes as their only reliable protection.

Patient (who has just had his eye operated upon) — "Doctor, it seems to me that $50 is a high price for that job. It didn't take ten seconds."

Eminent Oculist. — "My friend, in learning to perform that operation in ten seconds, I have spoiled more than two bushels of eyes."

And then we get old and feeble just as men do, and the older we grow, if we have worked faithfully, the more kindly we ought to be treated, and it isn't right when we have given you a lifetime of faithful service to sell us off in our old age for a small sum into the hands of hard masters.

Two men or boys of the same size can't always do the same work—neither can two horses.

We ought to have shade in summer, warm stables and blankets in winter.

Our stomachs are small and we ought to be fed and watered often.

We are glad to get a slice of bread, a piece of apple, and a dipper of water.

Always feed us from the palm of your hand so that we may not bite your fingers.

When you put us up in a strange stable never trust the hostler to give us the oats, but go out and see that he does it, and stand by us while we eat them, and see that he don't forget to water us.

Never put the bits into our mouths in cold weather until you have first warmed them, so that they won't take the skin off our tongues and make it painful to eat. You wouldn't like to have frosty iron bits put in your mouth on a cold day.

Always warm our bits in cold weather, and when from old age we can't chew, please take us to a horse-doctor and have our teeth filed so that we can.

When you find our blankets blown off on a cold day, please put them on again and tuck them under the harness.

Don't keep twitching the reins when you drive us. You wouldn't like to have anybody twitching the reins all the time if the bit were in your mouth.

Don't over-drive us, and then on the other hand don't let us stand in the stable all day without exercise.

Horses and dogs need exercise every day, and can't be well without it. You wouldn't like to be tied up in a stall all day and not permitted to go out.

Please to make it a rule that you will never ride in a carriage drawn by a horse with mutilated tail, or a poor-looking horse, when you can possibly help it, and always look at the check-rein. Always select the carriage that has the best-looking horses, and tell the drivers why you do it.

Then when we get run down we should like to be sent off into the country to take a vacation and pick up.

If all boys and girls, every time they see a poor, miserable-looking horse, would simply say so the driver could hear them, four words, I pity that horse, it would be a great benefit to us.

But above all things, kindly remember that you can do us a world of good by simply talking to us kindly—telling us we are good fellows, and all that.

All we horses and dogs and birds and all dumb animals know the tones of your voices, and we like to be talked to kindly just as well as you do.

You can make us very happy by only talking to us kindly.

And when it becomes necessary that we should die, don't let anybody try to kill us that don't know how, but send to our society for the prevention of cruelty to animals, that employs skillful men to kill all horses and dogs and cats humanely, and let them send a man to kill us mercifully without fore-knowledge and without pain.

VIVISECTION IN SCHOOLS.

(From Editorial in Harper's Weekly.)

But there is a subordinate phase of the subject somewhat recently presented which one cannot regard with so much satisfaction, namely, the growing practice of vivisection before classes of young pupils in the schools. Such an over-zealous application of the "scientific method" is fit to appear only in that sorry system of pedagogics which makes light of sentiment and considers the goal of education to be the acquisition of bare facts. In a broader view it must appear that such gruesome exhibitions will have a most unwholesome effect upon the mind of a child, tending to strengthen rather than to repress its selfish and cruel instincts. The child who has been taught through "scientific" demonstrations to regard a pet cat or dog as an animated machine with contracting muscles and blood-propelling heart and bile-secreting liver, instead of as a living being possessed of feelings and emotions something akin to its own, can never again regard the sacred mystery of life in quite the same light as before. It has gained knowledge of very doubtful value at the expense of a distinct ethical sacrifice. Far better might that child remain ignorant of the appearances of vital organs than lose its awe for the vital principle that animates them.

SIGNS OF SUMMER.

When the lark is singing carols from its viewless place on high,
As the sunshine hangs its banners crimson tinted o'er the sky;
When the hum of busy insects answers back the linnet's song,
When the mists have veiled the mornings and the lovely days grow long;
When the leaves are all a-tremble 'neath the passion of the breeze,
And the grain fields change their shadows like the billows of the seas;
While each cricket chirps its challenge from its refuge in the grass,
And the blossomed boughs are nodding to the pilgrims as they pass;

Summer's come!

When the dragon flies are darting like winged jewels through the air,
When the birds are singing sweetly to companions everywhere;
When the mountains blend their grandeur into softly moulded lines,
And the rocks peep out in gladness from their drapery of vines;
When the streams laugh very softly to the willows as they pass,
Where the flowers cluster gayly in their many-tinted mass,
While the velvet moss is spreading there its carpeting of green,
And a fringe of bushes furnish perfect framing of the scene,

Summer's come!

When the forest's cooling shadows tempt to rest at sultry noon,
While the murmurs of the leaflets tempt to slumber with their tune;
When the clouds are fleecy whiteness, when the atmosphere is bland,
And the season spreads its gladness and its plenty o'er the land;
When the lakelet drinks the sunshine—while its mirrored gold is still—
As it waits to clasp the streamlets dancing gayly down the hill,
While God's beauties, like soft blessings, permeate the earth and air,
And unspoken benedictions meet our vision everywhere,

Summer's come!

When the air is perfume-laden through the watches of the night;
When the moonlight on the meadows is a glorified delight,
As it gilds the lake and river, as it softens rugged scenes
With its lights and shadows shifting through a million leafy screens;
Every pool a shining wonder, every tree unstudied art,
Every hill and valley making of its marvel-work a part;
Every day a dream of beauty, every night a new surprise,
Every hour a tempting picture for our wonder-haunted eyes;
When all these are spread before us—each a gem without alloy—
When the soul responds in gladness and the earth is drunk with joy,
While the heart intones its anthems, joining nature in her praise,
And perfection meets perfection in a thousand wondrous ways,

Summer's come!

THE DEVIL'S OWN.

We learn from the Omaha (Nebraska) Evening Bee of an Omaha clergyman who administered the sacrament and christened the babies out in the middle of the state the other day and amused himself on his way back by shooting song-birds—bringing into Omaha twenty-two slaughtered meadow larks, for which he was fined one hundred and ten dollars.

We don't know what denomination he belonged to, but do know that a minister of the gospel who goes out shooting meadow larks for the fun of killing them, is one of the devil's own ministers, and ought to be turned out of a Christian church.

HE COULD NOT BE SEEN.

"I want to see the boss of the house," said the peddler to Mrs. D., who had answered the ring.
"I'm sorry," she replied, as she gently closed the door, "but baby is asleep just now."

RARE INTELLIGENCE.

An instance of the rare intelligence of a mare comes to us from a neighboring farm, which may be hard to believe and yet it is true. Some days ago Mrs. Hutchison, widow of the late Andrew Hutchison, heard one of the mares on the place come tearing up toward the house making signs of uneasiness and distress. Mrs. Hutchison went out and the animal came up to the fence, evidently wanting something. She went out and the mare immediately turned and plainly signified that she was in trouble. At first Mrs. Hutchison tried to drive her away, but she so clearly showed that something was wrong and wanted Mrs. Hutchison to follow her, that the lady did so, the mare trotting hurriedly off to a small branch that runs through the place.

On arriving at the creek, imagine her surprise at seeing a newborn colt standing in the water half way up its sides and unable to get out. It had evidently been born near the bank of the creek and in trying to get up had stumbled into the creek. In the meantime the mother had been in great distress, and not knowing how to rescue her offspring had gone to the house in search of help and had brought Mrs. Hutchison to the rescue. The lady called her son Frank from a neighboring field and the colt was taken out of the water. During this process the mare was very uneasy and fearful lest the colt would be hurt, and rubbed her head and shoulder very excitedly against Frank while he was at work with the colt. But the colt was saved and wrapped up in a blanket and kept warm until it was fully dry, and suffered no inconvenience from its misfortune.

Here is a case of "horse sense" hard to beat.

NOT A BIRD.

Not a bird that comes to the country but earns its living from the people. In some way or another they earn their right to live. Most of the song-birds are insect eaters. It is a question whether we could live on this earth if insects were allowed to multiply in the numberless forms and myriads of progeny that Nature provides. Certainly man could not alone keep the insects down without the help of the birds. Even the hawks and owls live mostly on field mice and gophers, and Mr. Crow will eat almost any old thing, which, if allowed to remain to pollute the air, means disease and death.—Pembina Pioneer Express.

THE BUILDING OF THE NEST.

They'll come again to the apple tree,
Robin and the rest,
When the orchard branches are fair to see
In the snow of the blossoms dress;
And the prettiest thing in the world will be
The building of the nest.

Weaving it well, so round and trim,
Hollowing it with care;
Nothing too far away for him,
Nothing for her too fair—
Hanging it safe on the topmost limb,
Their castle in the air.

Ah, mother bird, you'll have weary days
When the eggs are under your breast,
And shadows may darken the dancing rays
When the fledglings leave the nest,
But they'll find their wings in a glad amaze,
And God will see to the rest.

So come to the trees with all your train
When the apple blossoms blow,
Through the April shimmer of sun and rain
Go flying to and fro;
And sing to our hearts as we watch again
Your fairy building grow.

DARWIN'S MISSING LINK.

DUDE AND DOCK-TAIL.

(For Our Dumb Animals.)

Oh, here comes Dude-y on his dock-tailed horse,
Dude-y with glass on his eye!
His head is small, but too big for his brains;
Just look at his cane! Oh, my!
He simpers and squints as he trots away;
Dude along, dude along, dude along day.

His shallow pate shorn to his skinny head,
Where his long ears stick out wide;
My! what a guy! See his shaved thoroughbred,
Mane cut away all one side!
Flies bite neck and flank; he can't switch away;
Dude along, dude along, dude along day.

Poor little dude! o'er his saddle he leans,
Thinks he is graceful and chic,—
Ladies he bows to turn away their heads,
The sight of the ape makes them sick,
But 'tis English you know, and snobs must obey;
Dude along, dude along, dude along day.

The horse we pity! the outrage and wrong
Man forces him to endure!
But lack of brain and a heart turned to stone
What medicine ever can cure?
The horse has our pity; contempt only, they;
Dude along, dude along, dude along day.

A WORD FOR DAD.

From the Stevens County (Mo.) Revellite.

We happened in a home the other night, and over the parlor door saw the legend worked in letters of red, "What is home without a mother?" Across the room was another brief, "God bless our home."

Now, what's the matter with "God bless our dad?" He gets up early, lights the fire, boils an egg, grabs his dinner-pail and wipes off the dew of the dawn with his boots while many a mother is sleeping. He makes the weekly hand-out for the butcher, the grocer, the milkman and baker, and his little pile is badly worn before he has been home an hour. He stands off the bailiff and keeps the rent paid up.

If there is a noise during the night dad is kicked in the back and made to go down stairs to find the burglar and kill him. Mother darns the socks, but dad buys the socks in the first place and the needles and the yarn afterwards. Mother does up the fruit; well, but dad buys it all, and jars and sugar cost like the mischief.

Dad buys chickens for the Sunday dinner, carves them himself and draws the neck from the ruins after every one else is served. "What is home without a mother?" Yes, that is all right; but "What is home without a father?" Ten chances to one it is a boarding-house, father is under a slab, and the landlady is the widow. Dad, here's to you; you've got your faults—you may have lots of 'em—but we will miss you when you're gone.

[To the above may be properly added the question of a kindergarten teacher to her class—"What animal supplies you with food and leather for your shoes?" and the reply of a bright little boy—"Father."]

"Do you pay for spring poems?" asked the poet.

"I do," replied the editor. "Lose six subscribers every time I publish one."—Exchange.

WHAT IS THE OBJECT OF THE BANDS OF MERCY?

I answer: To teach and lead every child and older person to seize every opportunity to say a kind word or do a kind act that will make some other human being or some dumb creature happier.

TELL HIM SO.

If you have a word of cheer
That may light the pathway drear
Of a brother pilgrim here,
Let him know.

Show him you appreciate
What he does; and do not wait
Till the heavy hand of Fate
Lays him low.

If your heart contains a thought
That will brighter make his lot,
Then in mercy, hide it not;
Tell him so.

Wait not till your friend is dead
Ere your compliments are said;
For the spirit that has fled,
If it know,

Does not need to speed it on
Our poor praise; where it has gone
Love's eternal, golden dawn
Is aglow.

But unto our brother here
That poor praise is very dear;
If you've any word of cheer
Tell him so.

Good Health.

WHY HE CLIPPED.

I saw him take the paper and
Turn to the household page,
Then scan the columns up and down,
As one who all would gauge.

"Aha!" he muttered to himself,
"Here's 'How to Make Rice Fritters,'
And 'How to Utilize Cold Beef,'
And 'Homemade Stomach Bitters.'"

Then from his pocket forth he took
A pair of scissors small,
And severed from the printed page
The helpful hints and all.

He clipped "The Way to Scramble Eggs,"
And "How to Make Peach Butter,"
As well as half a dozen more,
"That's all"—again his mutter.

"Do you," I asked, "preserve those notes
So that your wife may eye them?"
"Not much," he growled, "I cut them out
So she won't try to get them."

CAN MAKE HALF-A-MILLION DOLLARS.

Some one is going to patent and put on sale a simple invention to close the ears of sick people and light sleepers against outside noises, and relieve hundreds of thousands of persons from great suffering, and make half-a-million of dollars and, we hope, give one-fifth or, at least, one-tenth of that sum to the American Humane Education Society for this humane suggestion.

The importance of some invention to protect the sick from outside noise is now being vastly increased by the growing use of automobiles, which may at any moment, in an ordinarily quiet street, break a sleep upon which life or death may hang.

GEO. T. ANGELL.

INSOMNIA, ELECTRICS, ETC.

Many people think they can sleep better when their beds head to the north—others when to the west.

We think we can sleep better on a canvas bed or a woven wire than on spiral springs. We sometimes wonder whether these modern metallic spring beds may not have something to do with the alleged increase of insomnia. Can any one tell us?

DID NOT GO TO HARVARD.

It is a fact that in some of our smaller country towns a man is occasionally elected on the School Committee who has not had the advantages of Harvard University. We have recently heard of one such who declined to appoint a teacher because, as he said, she didn't understand the first principles of pro-nounce-a-tion.

This reminds us of one of the examiners at our College Preparatory School.

One of our mischievous boys, knowing that he was ignorant of the Greek language, handed him a Greek book bottom side upwards. The old gentleman, to the great amusement of the class, listened attentively, consulting his book from time to time as though he knew all about it.

Massachusetts has the first law in the world prohibiting vivisection in the public schools.

SPECIAL INSPIRATION.

As we have often said in this paper the human mind is so constituted that it is impossible for all to think alike.

In 1870, when having succeeded in inducing the Royal Society P. C. A., of London, to establish a humane paper like our own, we were urging the establishment of "The Ladies' Humane Educational Committee," [which, with the Baroness Burdett-Coutts at its head, has since done such a great work in Great Britain], Mrs. Colam, wife of the Secretary of the Royal Society, came to us with tears in her eyes, and telling us of the duties already heaped upon her husband, besought us to cease our efforts to increase his labor and responsibilities.

We would have been glad to oblige this good woman under whose roof we were then stopping, but could only reply that we were so impressed with the importance of what we were doing that if every woman in England were to stand before us and make the same request we should still think it our duty to use every effort in our power to establish that committee.

And so it was established and has done a world of good!

Many times since, when we would have been glad to have done what kind friends wanted us to do we have been compelled to say that other plans have seemed to us wiser and better.

We make no claim to special inspiration from the good spirits which are, or ought to be ever around our work.

We do not know what influence the prayers which we are assured by Christian women in various parts of our country they have offered in our behalf may have.

But we do know that thoughts which have come to us from we know not where, sometimes in the day

OUR WOODS IN WINTER.

[From "American Ornithology," published by Chas. K. Reed, Worcester, Mass.]

and sometimes in the night, and aid which has repeatedly come to us from most unexpected sources, have often brought to our mind the thought that a Higher Power and Stronger Hand than ours is at times directing our work.

GEO. T. ANGELL.

THE KINGDOM OF GOD.

There is no unbelief;
Whoever plants a seed beneath the sod
And waits to see it push away the clod,
He trusts in God.

Whoever says when clouds are in the sky,
"Be patient, heart: light breaketh by-and-by,"
Trusts the Most High.

Whoever sees, 'neath winter's field of snow,
The silent harvest of the future grow,
God's power must keep.

Whoever lies down on his couch to sleep,
Content to lock each sense in slumber deep,
Knows God will keep.

5000 large cards for posting, containing the above notice, can be had at our offices without charge, and are sent through the State.

"OUR DUMB ANIMALS."

We believe no other paper in the world goes, as "Our Dumb Animals" does every month, to the editorial rooms of every newspaper and magazine in America north of Mexico, and we believe that no paper in the world is more seldom thrown into the waste-basket unread.

IT GOES EACH MONTH TO

All members of our two Humane Societies. Several thousands of business firms and men. All Massachusetts clergy, Protestant and Roman Catholic. All Massachusetts lawyers, physicians, bank presidents and cashiers, postmasters, school superintendents, large numbers of writers, speakers and teachers through the State. About 500 of the Society's agents in almost every Massachusetts city and town.

"Bands of Mercy" through the State. Many subscribers and others through the State. The Boston police. The Massachusetts legislature. Hundreds of coachmen, drivers and teamsters. The editors of all Massachusetts newspapers and other publications. Many newspaper reporters.

All our Humane Societies throughout the entire world. Large numbers of subscribers in our own and foreign countries. Thousands of our Bands of Mercy in our own and other countries. Members of our National Congress. Presidents of all American Colleges and Universities north of Mexico. Writers, speakers, teachers, and many others in various States and Territories. The editors of over twenty thousand American publications, including all in our own country and British America.

Of these over twenty thousand we have good reasons for believing that not less than nineteen thousand, and perhaps more, are read either by editors or by their wives and children.

Don't forget your cat.
